2. The geological history

“The formation of the Baltic Sea”

After an evocative multimedia journey, we examine the plate shift that led to the formation of the Baltic Sea. Interesting objects such as dinosaur bones, exceptionally beautiful amber, and numerous fossils await us. We try to identify the different stones. And then we visit the Boulder Garden.

And we get to know one of Martin Luther’s closest confidants and companions, Johannes Bugenhagen, who was born in Pomerania.

On our museum tour, we explore the exhibition “Pomerania in the 20th Century”. Here we encounter contemporary witnesses and examine the objects and stories associated with them.

Afterwards, we exchange views on selected objects, with open discussion and reflection.

10. Something for refugees “Take a seat at the table!”

Here, a vivid film projection provides an introduction to the Pomeranian State Museum, its departments, and its outdoor area. A stone hewn for a monastery dating back to the era of monastic life on the grounds of the museum leads us to the department of the Middle Ages. There, we playfully learn what was on the dining table back then, what was cooked, and how, and what utensils people ate with. An old jug then takes us to the picture gallery and a still life by Georg Flegel, one of the most important German still-life painters of the Baroque period.

We then create our own still lives in our atelier.
